Woman Leader of the Year Award
Women's Leadership Council
Dean of Students Office
University of Florida

Mission

The Woman Leader of the Year Award recognizes undergraduate women who have made the University of Florida campus and the surrounding Gainesville community a more positive and supportive environment through service to the public via volunteer programs, student organizations, etc.

Benefits

The Woman Leader of the Year Award will foster the development of leadership philosophy in the finalists and viewers of the event. All participants will be able to learn from the speakers' experiences and thoughts on leadership at the University of Florida. Additionally, the event will encourage female leadership by recognizing and rewarding individuals who diligently work on campus and in the community.

Participants

All undergraduate women are encouraged to apply for the award. We select finalists and the winner with no discrimination of age, ethnicity, religion, socio-economic status, sexual orientation or gender expression. The Woman Leader of the Year Award is an equal opportunity to all undergraduate women at the University of Florida. Most importantly, we judge applicants on their leadership philosophies as communicated through their written responses and live interview questions.
